out the necessity of preventing ex-travagance not only of national resources but also of human beings: commended the work which has al-ready been done in this line. The address dwelt at length on the matter of human conservation especially in regard to women. She treated the subject from three different points of view, the physical, the mental and the spiritual. In regard to the physical side elimanation of unnecessary work was urged as well as relaxation to secure perfec

In closing the address she said: "It is only when we apply the principles of conservation to the individual life in all its departments and see how much easier it is to work, how much more time there is for enjoyment, and get the sense of bour ancy that comes from being in com-mand of all our forces, that the full beauty of the idea grows upon us. We are continually surprised to find what can be accomplished and think what can be accomplished and think we have gained new powers. It is not that, we are simply using rightly what we have.

"The Work and Aims of the Wisconsin Congress of Mothers," was the paper presented by Mrs. H. H. Betts, this afternoon. Mrs. A. Staw Best of Chicago read an interesting account of "The Drama League," and Mrs Pennybacker gave a very delightful address.

Mrs. Pennybacher, national president, gave a very stirring address this afternoon in behalf of the proosed raising of an endowment fund of $190,000 to carry on the national club work. Wisconsin's share of this fund, she said, would be $2,000, which would amount to twenty-five cents per capita. Mrs. L. E. Sterns made a motion to the effect that this money be forthcoming as soon as possible and also stated that she had received letter from State President, Mrs. W. H. Crosby of Racine, enclosing a check for $100 to be donated toward visconsin's share of the national en-

BUOB'S BEER OR ALE

(Our Own New Brew)

Name over in your mind the beer drinking nations and you will find that they are noted for sobriety, thrift and health.

Pure beer never creates an appetite for stimulants. Witness the good health apparent of the Germans, whose national beverage is beer. Sobriety and thrift have ever been German characteristics.

As a food beverage, good beer stands highest.

It is a food and tonic abounding in the rich properties of the choicest selected barley, malt and imported hops.

Buob's Beer is perfectly pure, properly aged and contains but a very small percentage (about 21/2%) of alcohol—an amount serving as a healthful tonic, readily digestible.

GAZETTE PRINTING CO.

A REVIVAL OF HEALTH.

It is sometimes difficult to interest people in a revival of religion because of indifference, but a revival of health should appeal to the most indifferent. Believing that the time is ripe for such an awakening the Gazette, cooperating with the ministers of the city has arranged for a series of meetings to be conducted by W. Earl Flynn, the noted health evangelist of Berkeley, California.

Mr. Flynn has a nation-wide reputation and his work is highly endorsed in all parts of the country. He was in Madison the third week in September, in Milwaukee last week, and is now in Beloit. His first lecture in Janesville will be given to men in the auditorium of Carxill Memorial Methodist church at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. The Rev. George E. Hunt of Madison, in a letter to Mr. Flynn,

"In the first place, it is thoroughly good to know a man who is doing so disinterested and unselfish thing. That you might be selfish and make yourself rich in private practice is very evident from your record and from a personal acquaintance with

"In the second place, you understand human nature and know how to arouse men to do their duty by heen worked out by students of the human body. With your Irish wit and your simple and childlike and unashamed way of talking with your audience, you tremendously interest ence. Your chunks of scientific instruction are well coated with sugar, also apparent. or, to put it another way, you have a lainless method of injecting sense in to the hearts and minds of the people. It is this that makes your work so popular. It is this that is doing such videspread good. In the third place, the information you impart is very evidently information which you have worked out yourself, and you are dead in earnest in get well and stay well.

"In the fourth place, I tremendously like your putting it all on the high plane of Christian service. You believe in the church and the great mission of the church to serve men. Your public lectures last week were given before audiences that taxed the capacity of the church. This week the classes that are paying for the work fill our chapel to its utmost capacity. Their unbounded enthusiasm and Miss Bosworth are good to behold."

It is recalled that when President Taft entered the White House three and a half years ago the business of the country was depressed and discouraged, with thousands of men idle and with capital shrinking from investment; and it is noted that from the very beginning of the Taft administration the tide of business activity has been rising until it is now at full flood. Just how full the flood is, had striking evidence here in Chicago this week when the Tribune, which is not supporting President Taft, published an editorial article boasting that the preceding day's issue of that paper, contained thirty columns of "help wanted" advertisements showing brisk demand for labor of every sort trained and untrained, men and women, old and young. In face of the fact that all kinds of labor is in good demand, with times never more prosperous, what occasion means of a special session of is there for demanding a change of administration? It is well for all thinking men to look the situation squarely in the face, and discover where all this clamor for a change is coming from.

The rank and file of democracy are satisfied for they are liberal sharers in prosperity, both in the industrial and commercial world. The leaders of the party are out and want to get in, but that would hardly be advanced as an argument.

So far as the progressive party is concerned, it would never have had existence but for Colonel Roosevelt, and were he eliminated the organization would cease to exist in twentyfour hours . Are the people willing to take the chances on a change to gratify one man's ambition?

That's all there is to it and common sense will dictate to every man who thinks that a change is not only not desirable, but might prove a grave mistake. The republican party is safe and sane.

THE NATIONAL BUDGET.

best reforms ever offered. About the last bill to be rushed through in the closing days of congress, was the appropriation bill, often styled the "pork barrel" because it is the receptacle for all sorts of extravagances,

If a congressman wants an appro priation for his district he puts his hill in the pork barrel, with hundreds of others, and it slips through unnoticed. Thus, millions of dollars are squandered every year.

The largest public crib in the country is the people's treasury at Washington and it is subject to more raids than the republic of Mexico.

A national budget will do much to remedy the evil, for there's nothing like the light of day to regulate an evil. The president is entitled to all the backing needed to secure the reform.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT,

"The voters are thinking these days and they are not going to be misled. In state affairs there is a disposition clean house. An increase of ten million dollars in the state's expenses since Covernor Scofield's term has made the tax-payers sit up and take notice. It is hard to explain why taxes should increase over four times as much when the population of the state only increased thirteen per cent in the same period. Under governors like Hoard, Upham and Scofiled no such outrageous taxes would be tolerated. Hence the voters are looking for a change."-Menominee Falls

The "News" is right. The people are thinking, and the more they think the stronger the determination grows to turn the rascals out. The only is sue in Wisconsin this year is the issue of economy and efficiency in the management of state affairs. The state progressive movement, under the inspiration of vindictive and disappointed leaders, has divorced itself from the national campaign.

Wisconsin is said to possess the only brand of simon pure reform, but when it costs the tax-payers a million dollars a month to exploit it, the luxury is so highly flavored that it becomes nauseating.

The people of the state have permitted one man to do their thinking so long that they are out of practice, but they are rapidly acquiring the habit, and when they express themselves in November the state will have occasion to congratulate itself. themselves. All of the information Vote for Taft for president and conwhich you impart is scientific and tinued prosperity, and vote for the most of the experiences you give have best interests of the commonwealth on state issues.

The Gazette has never favored local prohibition, but if wholesome regulative laws are not respected, and can not be enforced, the only your purpose to help other people to thing left is to abolish the business in the interests of public welfare.

The women of the state, who are the guests of the city this week, should be given a hearty welcome. They are zealous workers in a cause which seems to them of vital importance to public welfare. It is their day in court, and they are entitled to a respectful hearing. by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine quies out of ter are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

ocal Greeks Awaiting Word of Declaration of War and Several May Return to Fight For Their Country.

With the call sent out by the government of Greece for the men who served in her army between the years 1894 and 1910 and in her navy between the years 1895 and 1905 to gather in the home country for service in case war is declared against Turkey, the Janesville Greeks are anxiously awaiting word from the representaof their country in the United States as to whether or not it will be necessary for them to return. John Milton of this city, or John Milton John Georgopolis, his full name in Greek, last right received from the Greek consulgeneral at Chicago the following telegram:

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 7. Mr. John Milton, Georgopolos, 170 Milwaukee street, Janesville.

Telegram directed to you from Athens calls you to war immediately.
Consul General of Greece.

Mr Milton has wired to Chicago to verify this telegram, and if notificaof the declaration of war is received here, will probably return to his home country. Word has been sent out by the Grecian government calling in all her citizens in foreign n this country state that about three hundred thousand Greeks, it is esti-mated, will respond to the call. Ready to Leave.

Of these there are several who are employed on the section and several vorking about the city, who are prepared to leave at any time. In Rockord and Beloit organizations have been perfected, and sixty-five Greeks from Rockford expect to leave Thursday or Saturday for their country, but are awaiting word of the declaration of war. Over one hundred and lifty in Beloit are ready to drop their work in case their country needs them. A meeting of three hundred Greeks in Rockford was held yesterday at which John Milton of this city was present. Plans were discussed at that time for returning to Greece to take part in the war.

All Prepared.

The Grecian parliament has assemled and if war is declared, announcenent of it will be made to the ambassador at Washington, Saturday or Monday, it is expected. Already over twentyfive hundred volunteers this country have sailed from New York on the steamship, "Macedonia." The boat will be met at the Straits of Gebraitar by four Grecian warships, which will act as a protective escort to the steamship,

No Organization, Here. In Janesville no definite organiza-tion has been effected, because of the small number of Greeks here, but the Greeks meet with one another at various times during the day and discuss the situation. Papers published in in the Greek language are received here daily, and the latest news of the situation in the Balkians is most eagerly sought. A sort of a loosely-formed organization exists here, with Mr. Milton acting as a sort of secretary. Tuberculosis Remedy Based on Medicine

Based on Medicine

To say that a specific exists for the cure of Consumption is perhaps too strong a statement, but in Eckman's Alterative we have a medicine that has been the means of saving many a life to rears of usefulness, and in permanently benefiting a large number of Consumptives.

Certainly a purson afflicted with a wasting disease should be well fed with wholescome, nourishing food, but frequently raw eggs in quantities cause a digestive breakdown, and then no food nourishes. As for milk, a very good food for many, but a producer of biliomenses for some.

Any diet that keeps a Consumptive well nourished is the right one, but what is going to improve the patient? Eckman's Alterative has brought about 'all recovery in many cases of Consumption. Let those speak who know. Here is one:

90. Savannah's, Mochester, N. Y.

"Gentlemen: On June 3, 1997. I was openited upon for Tubpercular peritoritis at St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, N. Y.

After the operation my physician gave me up as hopeless. I was then urged by a priest to take Eckman's Alterative, which I did. My weight at the time was 72 lbs. I began to improve and steadily gained in health and strength. I now weigh 125 pounds and an absolutely well. Believing I owe it to myself and others. I make this statement."

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, asthma, Hay's Ever: Throat and Lung Troubles, and in uphuliding the system. Does not contain poisons, opintes or habit-forming drugs. A Legacy in Which You Share

N THE pocket of an old, ragged coat belonging to one of the insane patients of the Chicago poorhouse, there was found after his death, a will. The man had been a lawyer, and the will was written in a firm, clear hand on a few scraps of paper. So unusual was it that sent to a lawyer; and so impressed was he with its contents that he read it before the Chicago Bar Association and a resolution was passed ordering it probated. And it is now on the records of Cook County,

And this is the will of the old, insane patient of the Chicago poor-

I, Charles Louisberry, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do bereby make and publish this my last will and testament, in order, as justly as may be, to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

That part of my interests which is known in law and recognized in the sheep-bound volumes as my property, being inconsiderable and of none account, I make no disposition of in this my will. My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but, these things excepted, all else

e world I now proceed to devise and bequeath.

"Item: I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their chiller died this month. Do you think it in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath. dren, all good little words of praise and encouragement, and all quaint pet names and endearments; and I charge said parents to use them justly, but generously, as the needs of their children shall require.

"Item: I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every the flowers of the fields and the blossoms of the woods, with the right to play among them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thisties and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float high over the glant trees.

"And I leave the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the train of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject, nevertheless, to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

"Item: I devise to boys, jointly, all the useful, idle fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all snow-clad hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes, one may skate, to hold the same for the period of their boyhod. And all meadows, with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereof; the woods with their appurtenances; the squirrels and the birds and echoes and strange noises, and all, distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place at the fireside at night, with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy without let or hindrance or without any incumbrance or care.

"Item: To lovers I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the starm of the sky, the red roses by the wall, the bloom of the hawthern, the sweet strains of music, and aught else they may desire to figure to each other the lastingness and beauty of their love.

'Item: To young men, jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous, inspiring sports of rivalry, and I give to them the disdain of weakness, and undaunted confidence in their own strength. Though they are rude, I leave to them the power to make lasting friendships and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and grave choruses to sing with lusty voices.

"Hem: And to those who are no longer children or youths or lovers, I leave memory; and bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare and of other poets, if there be others, to the end that they may live the old days over again, freely and fully without tithe or diminu-

"Item: To our loved ones with snowy crowns, I bequeath the happlness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall

After all was he so poor and insane? If that was the world in which he lived, was he not richer, and his mind less disturbed than are some of us who go about freely and who have money in the bank? At any rate, to each of us he bequeathed something. Let us not fail to get our legacy.

WAYS OF USING LEFT-OVER DISHES.

Rice may be baked in an escalloped dish with cheese or tomatoes, making fine luncheon dish.

Rice With Apples .- Pare, quarter and core three or four medium sized apples and cook them carefully in a sirup made of sugar one cup, a cup of water and a slice of lemon, being careful to keep the apples whole. While they are cooking, reheat in a double boiler a cupful or two of cooked rice, adding a tablespoonful of sugar and one of sweet cream to each cup of rice, stirring lightly with a fork. Cover and let heat thoroughly. Pile the rice in the center of a glass dish and place the apples around it. Pour over any remaining sirup and garnish with a few candied cherries. Serve with or without whipped cream.

Rice With Bananas -Peel, and crape three ripe bananas and mash them with a fork until smooth and creamy, adding a few drops of lemon luice. Stir this lightly into a cup of cold cooked rice and serve with sweetened cream. This is a wholesome, nutritious dish and/especially attractive German Rice Pudding.-Mix sweetened whipped cream with cold rice and put in layers with apple sauce in a baking dish, having the rice on top.

Rice Griddle Cakes.-Steam a cup of cooked rice in part of a cup of milk, using a fourth of a cup. Add a half cup of milk, a tablespoonful each of butter and sugar, r, dash of salt, a half cup of flour, a teaspoonful of baking powder and an egg well beaten. Beat well and bake on a bot griddle. DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

QUALIFIED FOR MARATHON TEAM ON LOW PRO-TEIN DIET.

Clarence De Mar of Brocton. Mass, who has qualified for a place on the American marathon team that goes to Stockholm in July, has made his record on a low-protein diet. It has been repeatedly shown that the greatest physical endurance can be maintained on a diet excluding flesh meat. A constant expenditure of vitality is necessary to protect the body against the injurious effects of the waste products from food, from muscular exercise from bad mental states and from deficient ellmination. It is admitted that these waste products from flesh food and from protein in general, are more difficult of elimination than other waste and that therefore there is greater endurance, oth er things being equal, on a nonflesh, low protein diet. This is Illustrated in the statement by Dr. Wiley that a Japanese 'rick-ishaw man will haul you around town all day on a pound of rice, but you can not do that on a pound of meat. It should be observed that the rice is unpolished, containing more protein than the commercial rice.

COSTLY LUXURIES.

MAN whom I used to know recently committed suicide. No, it wasn't a case of unrequitted love. Nothing so romantic as that. It was simply a case of unpaid bills.

This man had health, a good wife and fairly good prospects. There was no reason on earth why he shouldn't have lived to a ripe old age in enjoyment of all these blessings, if it hadn't been that early in life he drifted into the habit of spending just a little more money than he had instead of basing his expenditures on his earning powers, he based them on his wishing powers. Marriage only made him worse, Agencies which had leaned him money at exorbitant rates were con-ficiently hounding him, every mail brought him dunning letters, he borrowed from Peter to pay Paul, he passed eleviless nights trying to find a way out, he agonized over his condition, and yet all the time—such is the psychology of the spender—he went on living beyond

Finally things came to a crisis, and driven half good insurance and a broken heart.

We often see people who seem to have more of the sood things of life than are commensurate with their diancial condition; and sometimes we envy them. It is a foolish envy. Believe me, anyone who lives beyond his means, pays heavily in coin of anxiety and a roubled mind for all the pleasure he may get out of s luxuries.

For every man who is driven to suicide by extravaoubt that there are a hundred who live on the brink gant living I don't of it.

It is said by these who have good reason to know, that a great many It is said by these who have good reason to know, that a great many of the people who win automobiles are constantly on the very edge of financial ruin. Their homes, their salaries and their peace of mind are all heavily mortraged smaintain the wretched things. Decidely the savages that they they heavily mortgaged to maintain the wretched things. Decidely the savages who used to call the automobile a "devil wagon" spoke better than they knew.

And decidedly we fortoises, who plod along afoot and enviously watch the hares in their submobiles, are really much more likely to win out in the race for happiness than we reallize.

When a young touche starts out spending money in a haphazard way without attempting to recken just how much per week they can afford to spend for each item, they start on the road to trouble. Loan sharks and charge accounts make such conditions possible, and I think anyone with limited means should avoid the latter as carefully as the former. Even checking accounts, misses one is very strong minded, have a tendency to make one careless about spending money. It seem so much more real, you know, when you part with an actual five dollar bill than it does just to sign one's name to a scrap of paper, especially when one has a plentiful o sign one's name to a scrap of paper, especially when one has a plentiful supply of just such scraps in one's check book.

Spending money is the easiest and most pleasant thing in the world—except when you don't have it. Even then it may be pleasant at first but sooner or later it will spoil your whole life.

EVERYTHING'S UP BUT THE CON-SUMER.

"Butter's up, meat's up, eggs are up, milk's up; everything's up but the poor consumer, and he's pretty near down and out," sighed the city housewife, who was regarding the few pennies left in her hand after the morning's marketing,

"If I could see any good excuse for it all," she went on, "like war time or famine. I wouldn't feel so injured about it, but it's been a prosperous year in crops and in business, and prices ought to be slanting down in stead of soaring.

The big firms say it's the producers who are raising prices. Now, there's milk. Because the farmer demands more money for his milk the big city milk dealer raises the price to the public to pay the additional amount to the farmer.

"All investigations show that the farmer never got enough for his milk; in fact, was forced to sell it most of the time without profit. But now, the the time without profit. But now the farmers are learning a desson from the city dealers. They are organizing, and, through the strength of their standing together, are getting their

"Of course I suppose it is unreasonable of the consumer to expect that the city milk dealer should stand any loss because he must pay a higher price to the producer. The milk retailer of the city must make the same profits for himselt, no matter what he pays the farmer. It wouldn't do at all to ask the city dealer to curtail his expenses or dividends. If anybody is to curtail expenses it's the consum er. The consumer doesn't have to live in style and ride in a limousine. So, naturally whatever extra the city dealer must pay must come out of the consumer.

"And it isn't only the big dealers who soak us," mourned the housewife, as she carefully placed in her purse the change from her marketing money. "The small producer who sells at retail follows their shining ex-

BREAKING OUT SPREAD ON LEG

Formed Large Blotches, Itching Terrible. Ugly Sores Would Break Open and Run. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Few Weeks.

Hilton, Kan .-- "About two years ago I began to notice a breaking out on my leg. At first it was very small but soon it began to spread until it formed large blotches. The itching was terrible and almost constant. Many nights I could not sleep at all. After scratching it to relieve the itching it would burn so dreadfully that I thought I could not stand it. For nearly a year I tried all Linds of salves and ointment, but found no relief. Some salves seemed to make it vorse until there were ugly sores, which would break open and run.

"One day I saw an advertisement of Cuticura Remedies. I got a sample of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and ocgan by washing the sores with the Cuticura Soap then applying the Cuticura Ointment twice a day. I noticed a change and got more Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a few weeks I was cured. It has healed o nicely that no scar remains." Mrs. Anna A. Lew, Dec. 17, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails with painful finger-ends, that it is almost criminal not to use them. For private reasons, his friends did not desire publicity for the affair, and it was not until the late afternoon, when all their investigations had proved fruitless, that they communicated with Scotland Yard. When the papers went to press the whereabouts of the great Mr. Ford still remained a mystery. In keen curiosity I set off up the stairs to Inspector Peace's room. Perhaps the little detective had later news to give me.

I found him standing with his back to the fire puffing at his eigarette with plump solemnity. A bag, neatly strapped, lay on the rug at his feet. He nodded a welcome, watching metover his glasses. "I expected you, Mr. Phillips," he said. "And how do you explain it?" "A love affair or temporary insanity.":I suggested vaguely. "Surely we can combine those solu-tions," he smiled. "Anything else?"

"No. 1 came to ask your opinion."
"My mind is void of theories, Mr. Phillips, and I shall endeavor to keep It so for the present. If you wish to amuse yourself by discussing possibilities, I would suggest your consid eration of the reason why, if he want ed to disappear quietly, he should leave so obvious a track through, the snow of his own lawn. For myself, as I am leaving for Camdon via Water loo station in 23 minutes, I shall hope for more definite data before night."

I come with you?" "If you can be ready in time," he

From the broad was no answer to his knock, and on front the white lawns crept down to the road on which we were driving. Dark masses of shrubberies and the tracery of scattered trees broke their silent levels. The park wall that fenced them from the road stood out like an ink line ruled upon paper.

"It must have been there that he disappeared, I cried, with a speculative finger.

"So I imagine," said Peace. "And it he has spent two nights on the Hampshire downs, he will be looking for a fire today. You have rather more than your fair share of the rug, Mr. Phillips, it you will excuse my mentioning it."

A man was standing on the steps of the entrance porch when we drove up. As we unrolled ourselves he stepped forward to help us. He was a thin: pale-faced fellow, with fair hair and indétérminate eyes. "My name is Harbord," he said. You are Inspector Addington Peace, I believe. His hand shook as he stretched it out in a tremulous greeting. Plainly the secretary was afraid, visibly and anxiously afraid, "Mr. Ransom, the manager of Mr. Ford's London office, is here," he continued. "He is waiting to see you in the library.

We followed him through a great hall into a room lined with books from floor to celling. A stout, dark man, who was pacing it like a beast in a cage, stopped at the sight of us. His face, as he turned, looked pinched and gray in the full light. "Inspector Peace, eh?" be said. Well, inspector, if you want a reward name it. If you want to pull the house down only say the word. But find him for us, or, by heaven, we're done."

"Is it as bad as that?" "You can keep a secret, I suppose. Yes-it couldn't well be worse. It was a tricky time; he hid half his schemes in his own head; he never trusted even mic altogether. If he were dead I said, and disappeared on the further could plan something, but now—" He thumped his hand on the table

"Thank you," said the inspector; and now, will you show me the place where this curious disappearance occurred?'

We crossed the drive, where the snow lay torn and trampled by the carriages, and so to the white, even surface of the lawn. We soon struck the trail, a confused path beaten by many footprints, "Peace stooped for a moment, and then turned to the secretary with an angry glance.

"Were you with them?" he said. "Yes.

"Then why, in the name of comnon sense, didn't you keep them off his tracks? You have simply trampled them out of existence, between

"We were in a hurry, inspector," said the secretary, meekly. "We didn't think about it."

We walked forward, following the broad trail until we came to a circular patch of trodden snow. Evidently the searchers had stopped and stood talking together. On the further side I saw the footprints of a man plainly defined. There were some half-dozen clear impressions and they ended at the base of the old wall, which was some six feet in height.

"I am glad to see that you and your friends have left me something, Mr. Harbord," said the inspector.

He stepped forward and, kneeling down, examined the nearest footprint. "Mr. Ford dressed for dinner?" he inquired, glancing up at the secretary.

"Certainly! Why do you ask?" "Merely that he had on heavy shooting boots when he took this evening we waited with due obedience till the inspector's bullet head again broke the horizon as he struggled back to his position on the coping of the wall.

He seemed in a very pleasant temper when he joined us; but he said nothing of his discoveries, and I had grown too wise to inquire. When we reached the entrance half he asked for Jackson, the valet, and in a couple of minutes the man appeared. He was a tall, hatchet-faced fellow, very neatly dressed in black. He made a little bow, and then stood watching us in a

"And why should he run away?" "I have no idea, sir; but he seemed to me rather strange in his manner

"Have you been with him long?" "No, sir. I was valet to the Hon. John Dorn, Lord Beverley's second son. Mr. Ford took me from Mr.

Dorn at the time he rented the hall." "I see, And now, will you show me your master's room. I shall see you again later, Mr. Harbord," he continued; "in the meanwhile I will leave my assistant with you." We sat and smoked in the secretary's room. He was not much of a talker, consuming eigarette after eig arette in silence. The winter dusk had already fallen when the inspector joined us, and we retired to our rooms o prepare for dinner. I tried a word with Peace upon the staircase, but he shook his head and walked on.

The meal dragged itself to an end somehow, and we left Ransom with a second decanter of port before : him Peace slipped away again, and I consoled myself with a book in the library until balf-past ten, when I walked off to bed. A servant was switching off the light in the hall when I mounted the great staircase.
